ON MARCH 6, the world will or should, celebrate the birthday of Michelangelo, greatest of artists, whose genius created men as far above Adam's strain as men are above the higher apes.

New York's Episcopal Church of St. Mark's in the Bowery has planned a service of "scriptural oratorio" in Michelangelo's honor.
Catholic churches owe him deeper gratitude. He created St. Peter's Cathedral, the story of Rome and the world, and painted the walls and ceiling of the Sistine Chapel for Pope Julius the Second. His Pieta, a bronze statue of Mary, with her dead Son lying upon her knees, in St. Peter's, is at all times the most perfect expression of a mother's grief, and a most marvelous work of perfectly correct anatomy. His marble statue of Moses, in the church of St.
Peter in Chains, is the finest statue ever made of a human being.

The great artist fought against fame and prejudice, as when one of the cardinals compelled him to put more clothes on his picture of the last Judgment.
Michelangelo, in revenge, painted that cardinal to look like the picture.
The wife Julius, who thought none of Michelangelo than of many cardinals, since he, the Pope, could create cardinals, and only God could create Michelangelo, refused to order the cardinal's picture removed from his unpleasant location.

"If Michelangelo had put you in Purgatory," the Pope said to the angry cardinal, "I might release you. But you know well that even I have not the power to take you out of Hell."

The Turkish dictionary, printed in our letters, instead of Arabic characters, contains 24-fold words, one-quarter the number in a good dictionary of English.
The average Turkish person must know less than 300 words, and that is true of the average man being. Many Americans along with "Gee, sure,
and, well, it's all the world,
and, well, sure."

Shakespeare used more words, by far, than any writer in our literature. Maxine Gorham said the writer that certain English writers have used more words than Shakespeare and that the English language was richer than the English in words and synonyms. Perhaps he was mistaken.

The ancient Hebrew language, which will remember, contained no words such as Greek and other philosophers used to express abstract ideas, until Maimonides created the Hebrew words for his translations of Greek authors.
The great synagogue in Spain excommunicated him for that, but the learned "Rabbi" was not for a Mohammedan and living in Kerpil, did not worry.

Dear in mind as you may read India that 500 years ago country's literature reveals no use of the word "liberty." That fact is to explain Britain's power, with a handful of men, to rule 200,000,000 Asiatics. To attain liberty you must think, talk and write about it.

Railroads are doing better than ever, financially, thanks to increased freight and passenger traffic. Passenger traffic diminishes alarmingly. In 1928 rail passenger traffic was lowest in 23 years.

This is caused not by less travel, but by more auto and motor bus travel. In a light automobile a man with his wife and children can go from ocean to ocean for less than it would cost one to go by train.

Intelligent railroad men realize that they let the automobile sit away from them. They insist that it is better to have freight and passenger traffic for automobile than for a lesson. The same mistake will not be made with flying.

It is time for railroads to think of flying and, especially, of fast, expensive passenger carrying unit, modified combination automobile train, run on existing tracks. A passenger coach carrying 5 per cent of its weight in passengers, is not much of the locomotive, cannot compete with a small automobile carrying passengers weighing as much as the car.

American corporations may sometimes be slow about new ideas, but the people are not.
Statistics show that in all the world there are 2,125,352 automobiles and in 1928 24,494, 546 of them were in this country.

We have 8 per cent of the world's population and 75 per cent of the world's automobiles.
Total British automobile manufacture for 1928 amounted to 216, 000 cars, less than one-quarter the number turned out by Chevrolet, which is only one unit in Duesenberg's.

were settled with the federal government in 1928 for cash and without court trial, this State is preparing to enact a law making such compromises by physicians sufficient cause to revoke medical licenses.

Senate Bill 217 introduced by Senator John J. Crowley of San Francisco, and Senator Sanford Young of Los Gatos, chairman of the State narcotic committee, proposes changes of the medical act, and will come up for action when the Legislature reconvenes today.

"Conviction of or cash compromise of a charge of violation of the Harrison act, regulating narcotics, shall be conclusive evidence upon which the State Medical Board may act to revoke the license of the physician involved," the proposed law reads.

The Crowley-Young bill was introduced with the sanction of Dr. Charles B. Plunkett, secretary of the State medical board, and an associate of the system of cash compromise for law violators.

The bill is the answer of the hundreds of professional men, editors and leaders of public opinion to the "assurance" of the federal officials at Washington that each compromise covers only cases of "technical violations" where no harm or intent is shown.

Just to make the State's efforts against the drug traffic more effective, another amendment to the present laws will be presented to the Legislature this session.

STRONG SUPPORT

This bill, also supported by anti-narcotic workers and by Senator Frank Brown, State narcotic director, provides "teeth" for the present State laws governing supply of narcotics through physicians' prescriptions.

It provides jail sentences, from six months to six years, for altering or forging prescriptions, and fines and jail sentences for lesser violations.

The present State laws, applicable to physicians, are weak in that they omit certain penal provisions. It is because this situation exists that the State, especially recently, the failure of federal authorities to make the Harrison narcotic act 100 per cent effective, veteran law enforcement officials declare.

VIEWS IN LETTER

Only through legislation and education, as advocated by the Hearst papers, can the real remedy be found, Senator Benson said. In the meantime, Senator Benson and his allies are endeavoring to check wholesale prescription of narcotics by extra legal means. Their attempts, he said, met with success with reputable physicians but in some instances less ethical doctors proceed to prescribe opiates extensively.

What the experts think of the drug pedlar—he he a "bootlegger" or a licensed physician dispensing his death dealing wares under the guise of medicine and under the cloak of respectability—is forcefully expressed in a letter sent to the Los Angeles newspaper by the Narcotic Research Association of the Pacific Coast states.

The dope pedlar is civilization's greatest enemy. He is a culture in human form, the most malignant for the world has ever known," the association report states.

In spite of the open charge by the California state board of medical examiners that several flagrant cases of Harrison narcotic violations have been compromised in recent years for cash payments into the United States treasury, Washington officials still maintain that only "technical and doubtful" cases occupy court trials and the pitiless publicity of public scrutiny by the community in which the alleged offenses are committed.

The organization, which includes legal, medical and educational minds, deplores the policy of cash compromise for law violators, no matter how described or defended.

HALT PROBE OF TUNNEL BLAST

The men are believed to have been at work on the floor of the tunnel, about one and a quarter miles east of shaft five toward the last charge, was set off when a fall struck it, it is believed. The tunnel where the explosion occurred is more than 600 feet underground.

Tax on Bachelors, Fewer 'Old Maids'

Havana, Feb. 15 (AP)—A new law in Cuba efforts to get young men married by taxing potential bachelors $10 each year they escape the matrimonial noose has come to fight with announcements that spinners must file their photographs with a governmental matrimonial bureau.

It provides jail sentences, from six months to six years, for altering or forging prescriptions, and fines and jail sentences for lesser violations.

The present State laws, applicable to physicians, are weak in that they omit certain penal provisions. It is because this situation exists that the State, especially recently, the failure of federal authorities to make the Harrison narcotic act 100 per cent effective, veteran law enforcement officials declare.

Clubs Kept Busy by Legislative Work

WITH the mid-winter meeting of the State Federation only 10 days away, interest in things legislative increases daily in club circles.

Before the session opens one of those in constant demand is Mrs. Robert J. Culbert, State legislative chairman, upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility of putting many progressive ideas of clubwomen into form for presenting to that body and to our representatives in the State House.

She is one of the "live wires" who joined the Boston Council of Jewish Women several years ago to find self-expression in community service. To say she is spending every spare hour reading law, a student at the Boston Law School, with a definite aim for her knowledge.

"My interest in civic matters showed me that the study of law would make me of wider service to my co-workers in club work, and so I started to school," Mrs. Culbert said. "My home duties do not occupy all of my time and being childless, how can I better serve where than through doing my bit to help bring the kingdom of heaven to earth just a little quicker?"

"I think that in how most club women gain up their strength," she said. "But how can the chairman of a group of clubs who have only recently appointed legislative committees in their clubs get the right start?" I inquired.

YEARS OF SERVICE. "My advice to every woman doing legislative work is to study without ceasing. None of us can be too well informed and knowledge is power, for we dare not devote anything and judgment believe that it requires special alert to do this work well."

Mrs. Culbert served for five years as legislative chairman of the club in the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. Her unflagging interest finally placed her upon the State Federation legislative committee, of which she later became chairman.

She is now law officer and legislative chairman in the state organization. And have all these honors and early idealism "ruffed up?" "Not a bit of it," Mrs. Culbert is said for her unfailing desire to do nothing at any time. She is so busy to be "highly busy."

"Anything touches a woman's life as actual contact with the problems of the community," she says. "None of us know it better than there is to learn yet."

CAR SKIDS OVER 10-FOOT WALL; 3 UNHURT

Although a new touring car skidded over a 10-foot wall at Wollaston Beach today, the only "casualties" were a fainting girl and two badly frightened youths. The automobile landed on all four wheels and was none the worse for its jump, proceeding away under its own power an hour later after a wrecking car hoisted it back on the boulevard.

The accident occurred when the driver, Mr. A. Hallstrom, of No. 4, Abington, slipped on his brakes suddenly to avoid collision with a car which swung out of road at the intersection of the Quincey street drive on which Hallstrom was heading toward Boston.

Miss Lillian Russell, 18, of Lake St., Abington, one of the occupants of the car, fainted and was carried to the nearby substation of the Metropolitan district police where Patrolman Patrick E. Marlowe took her. The third passenger was Stewart Pease, 16, of Lake St. The identity of the other driver was not learned, as he did not stop.

They read estate, where the value of the property was estimated at $125,000 for special courses in public speaking in memory of her husband.

CONCERT STARS SCORE IN PUB PROGRAMS

By MOSES SMITH
Music of many kinds—orchestral, choral, pianistic—satisfied the taste of the Boston concertgoers through one of the busiest musical week-ends of the season. Five public concerts—not to mention the regular Saturday evening symphony program—made a fairly good record even for this capital of music.

A most interesting experience was listening to the Hall Johnson Negro Choir of New York at Jordan Hall. Many of us are acquainted with whole programs devoted to Negro spirituals, but the Hall Choir revived our interest. Starting unexpectantly in their leaflet that "no attempt is made to secure a perfect choral ensemble," this small group of mixed voices, led by the sensitive Hall Johnson, attained in fact a remarkably true ensemble. The voices were admirable and well enough used for the effect desired. Above all, the "spirit of spirituals," which these people tried to give, was present in abundance. Nor were they aware of it. The result was a good "show," which on few occasions, even here, and on the other hand, the performance did not generate into rowdiness or "show-bus."

Symphony Hall, Jean Maria Sussman, Boston's latest musical hostess, gave her first complete program since her recent successful appearances with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He played Beethoven's sonata in E-flat, Opus 27, No. 1, and Schumann's "Davidsbündler" for his principal numbers. He dug up for novelties three sonatas of Scher, a century and a half old, and pieces by Leander and Honegger of this day and year. These were being played when the first time in America Ernst Toch's "Der Jongleur," was also new to this writer. Pieces by Albéniz completed the group. Sussman has obviously increased in artistic stature after his European studies. He has made notable advances in technical proficiency, so that the three little sonatas were played with beautiful clarity, and the Beethoven sonata's performance contained remarkable pedal-point. For the Schumann piece, which call for an artist of the stature of a Hofmann if they are to "come off," Mr. Sussman is not yet ready. Yet his performance was, on the whole, one of which he and Boston—may be proud. A large audience heard him with obvious enthusiasm.

Having chosen to hear Sussman, I could not hear the Boston Women's Symphony Orchestra in their concert at Jordan Hall at the same time. An audience that filled the hall heard a program consisting of Mozart's "Mozartiana" in G minor, Elgar's "Légende" in G minor, and Liszt's "Légende" in G minor. The first time in Boston and the first time in the world. The dynamic Legende not only delighted, but was so well as well in the concert. According to reliable report, the concert was of special interest, displaying a noticeable advance on previous performance here.

Other concerts included the People's Symphony Orchestra at the Hotel Statler and the International Music Festival at Symphony Hall.

Man Slashed by Gang of Boys in North End
Badly slashed on the head and left ear, Samuel Edwidge, 30, of 636 Hanover st., North End, was rushed to Haymarket Relief Hospital early today after an argument with a gang of youths was climaxed by the drawing of knives.

Police of the Hanover st. station were engaged in a hunt today for members of the gang, who left Edwidge lying on the sidewalk, when they fled.

The attack occurred at North st. and Hanover ave. Police were summoned to the scene by excited residents who witnessed the slashing.

SEVERAL DANCES OF IMPORTANCE TO SOCIETY ON THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

The Folk Handicrafts Guild to Hold Fete Week From Tomorrow

THE DEBUTANTE NO LONGER occupies the center of the stage. Entertainments are not planned for her exclusive benefit this late in the season, yet there are still many for her to attend. There, the annual midwinter dance at the Longwood Cricket Club on Thursday, and on the same evening the First Corps Cadets give their annual military ball at the cadet armory. Friday evening brings the bachelors' dance, always an outstanding event, to be held at the Algonquin Club. Already many out-of-town guests have made their plans to be present at this affair and dinner hostesses are making special preparations to do justice to the occasion.

MRS. MALCOLM BRADLEY FRENCH, president of the Charlotte Cushman Club, will receive at the dancet given by the club on Tuesday afternoon at the Copple-Plaza, Mrs. Charles Sumner Birch and Mrs. M. M. Seaton will pour, assisted by members of the club. Many widely known people of the theatrical world now playing in various Boston theaters will be guests of honor.

MRS. P. L. STACKPOLE is lending her home on Commonwealth ave. for the Folk Handicrafts Guild's fashion fete on Tuesday afternoon of next week, in which Juneteaux and Vivienne Club girls will act as models. Miss Taylor, Elizabeth East, Gertrude Marvan, Caroline Reed, Dorothea Ware, Carol Smith and Virginia Cowles are a few of the group taking part.

MEMBERS OF THE 1925-26 Junior League are especially interested in the engagement of Mary Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Keyes of Beacon st. to Kenneth W. Harrington of Glasgow, Scotland. A niece of Senator Henry Wilder Keyes of Illinois, she attended the Winsor School and Vassar College. Mr. Harrington, who was educated in England, served as a lieutenant in the Royal Air Force during the war. Wedding plans are not yet announced.

MRS. CURTIS GUILD ENTER- tains at dinner tonight at her home in Marlborough at the home of Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovich who arrives in Boston today. Other entertainments in his honor include a dinner tomorrow evening given by Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Morris Locke at the Ritz-Carlton where they are spending the winter. Following the dinner a reception will be held at which he will speak. Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick S. Watwell of Marlborough st. are among those bringing dinner parties out to the reception.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS K. LIGGETT and John Hays Hammond were among Bostonians present at the luncheon given last Saturday at Palm Beach for the President-elect and Mrs. Hoover by John Francis Burke, national council of the Republican Party and Mrs. Burke. The luncheon was held at the Bath and Tennis Club. The Liggetts are making an extended visit in Florida, accompanied by their daughter, Lorraine.

VERY ATTRACTIVE IN THEIR costumes of orange and black were Alison Twiss, Elizabeth Scully, Ellen Potter, Justine Prince, Barbara Welch and other debutantes at the Police Wets and Have Banquet.

The seventh anniversary of Boston Police Post 1018, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be celebrated tomorrow night with a banquet in "French Village," Hotel Westminster, which a large number of prominent persons will attend. Speakers will be former Mayor James M. Barker, Judge Thomas H. Dowd, Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson and Superintendent Michael H. Crowley. Eugene P. Carver, national commander-in-chief, has promised to be present.

There are 250 active members of the post, and a general invitation has been extended to all past members. The banquet will be in charge of Commander Andrew Markham, Division 21; Vice-Commander, Edwin Vail, Division 20; Junior Vice-Commander, Patrick Doland, Division 6; and Adj. Bertram Mullins, Division 8. The entertainment committee consists of ex-Commanders John P. Tenney, Division 1; James J. Crowley, Division 10; Walter McFarland, Division 15; and Max Singer, Division 2.

Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Charles Fensholt Adams, Mrs. Agnes Coolidge, Mrs. Noel Hamont, Mrs. Charles M. Cabot and Mrs. Augustus Hemenway, with the size and appreciation of the audience.

THE SECOND EXHIBITION OF paintings in the series which Mrs. Alexander Neilson is planning for the Junior League rooms at 4 Commonwealth ave. opened last Saturday. The artist is Roland P. Cotnam. He exhibits a few stills, but for the most part his studies are in water color, chiefly still life. Many of them are city scenes and his studies of New York are, perhaps, the most noteworthy in the exhibition.

MADAME DE MAINTENON, "EPOUSE DE VIEUX ROI" is the subject chosen by Madame de Vienne Allain de Mauduit for his lecture this morning at the home of Mrs. George Noyes, 51 Chestnut st. This is the first of a series of eight lectures which he will give on Monday mornings at 11:30. The last three will be given at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Guild, and the three preceding ones at Mrs. George Lee on Berkeley st. Mrs. George Parsons, Mrs. John Chipman Gray, Mrs. Josiah Quincy Gray, Mrs. Gardner H. Pike are among those arranging the series.

Employment in manufacturing industries decreased 0.2 per cent in January and payroll totalled created 3.3 per cent, as shown in returns from 12,138 establishments in the principal manufacturing industries of the United States. Total establishments in the 54 industries had 3,312,221 employees and payroll totals in one week of $7,561,542, a 1.2 per cent increase over the same week of all wage earners in the 54 industries combined.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics weighted index of employment in manufacturing industries for January, 1929, is 952, as compared with 955 for December, 1928, and 945 as compared with December, 1927, and 928, and 895 for January, 1927.

Twenty-one of the 54 industries had more employees in January than in December, 1928, and 18 had more employees in January than in December, 1927. Steam fittings having been the cotton-textile industry, shoe and leather building, boots and shoes, cotton-

AGAIN SUSPECT POLICE IN GANG MASSACRE

Chicago, Feb. 18 (AP).—The purple fades from the gang mass murder picture, and the blue of police uniforms again tints the scene.

The state's attorney's office expressed itself today as satisfied that the purple tinge of Detroit had no important part in last Thursday's seamy slaying. At the same time investigators were given further testimony that two of the players were dressed as police officers.

P. Bruce Caldwell, president of the board of education, volunteered new information last night. Caldwell told of seeing an automobile which he thought at the time was a police car.

Two in uniform. Caldwell fixed the time of the incident: the time of the slaying took place. Two men in the car, he said, wore police uniforms, and there were three others in civilian clothes also in the machine.

One of the men had a tooth on his front, he said. The car had a slight collision with a truck shortly after it passed him. Caldwell related, corroborating the account of a truck driver who earlier had reported that his truck was grazed by the machine.

It has been accepted theory with investigators that the gunmen, Frank and Phil, who were among those killed, would have lined up with their faces to the wall unless they had believed the men who invaded the garage were not dangerous. If the gunmen and their companions had recognized the invaders as policemen, or had reason to believe them policemen, they would have been willing to turn their backs to the guns, as they did, and "stand a scratch."

McGurn sought. Dan McGurn, who learned about machine guns in the war, is being sought for questioning. McGurn himself the target of gang guns in two occasions, is a leader of the Al Capone crowd, which police point to as the leading rival of the Hugo Moran gang for control of Chicago's liquor and beer business.

Graphologist Gives Advice to Salesman

By LOUISE RICE
Noted Graphologist

"I AM a salesman of medical instruments, due you believe I am doing the work I am best fitted for or should I enter another field. I shall look for your answer in the story. With my best wishes I am,

"J. C. J. Medford."

You see, my dear man, I put your letter in just as you wrote it, and now that you see that you have done some serious misapprehension, I know that you'll wonder how you happened to do such a thing, for you really have a great deal of intelligence.

Well, the fact is, the matter is that your mind functions brightly and accurately, but not accidentally, and by that I mean that you are not strictly the book scholar.

You are far more apt to learn a great deal from books than from people than from books.

Now ask yourself, what class of people do you meet when you sell medical instruments? Physicians? I am a salesman. Your answer in due season.

And, what is the mental caliber of those men? The very highest. What kind of a person should be of that kind? A person of an academic or professional cast of mind, a man who will soon make personal and social acquaintance with his customers.

Now, then, you are the type of man to be interested in a fine farm, in a good pet farm, in things which have to do with the earth. I do not suggest that you should be the regular farmer, with a very large tract, growing heavy crops like grain, because you would not like that. But you would be a wonderful grower of flowers or small fruit, and you would do well as a breeder of dogs or cats, and have also some of the temperamental from which we get fine "vets."

Now, then, you can't say that I haven't offered you a great variety of trades from which to choose. You can do well with your present work, but not as well as you could with some of the others.

Many of the lower topics of letters showed in a very erratic fashion. Generally speaking, loops which are very long below the line and which cut through many other lines of writing, express the instinct of the writer to hold on to material things.

If these long loops have a rounded hook on the end, as in y in the first word in the illustration, the instinct to grapple with material things, and to value possessions.

Rescuers Near 1500 Snowed In. Durango, Col., Feb. 18 (AP).—The army of shovellers working day and night to cut through mountainous snow slides to Silverton and Durango, near here, where food supplies are almost exhausted, had hopes today of reaching the isolated mining settlement within the next day or two.

Only one great slide and a few small ones remained to be cleared from the tracks of Denver & Rio Grande Western "railroad." "For a train loaded with supplies for the 1500 inhabitants of the two communities can be moved into Silverton, Durango is only a short distance from there."

Nine Killed at Fire in Egypt. Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 18 (AP).—Nine persons were killed and 27 severely injured in a fire in a large village near the city. A total of 150 houses were destroyed.

Olga Bacalanova Has Strong Role in Film. The inclusion of the distinguished Russian actress, Olga Bacalanova, in the cast of "The Wolf of Wall Street," at the Olympia and Fenway, was a happy thought on the part of the casting director.

Grimean Vet Is Dead at 99. Ashbury Park, N. J., Feb. 18 (AP).—Dr. Edwin P. Turner, 99-year-old veteran of the Crimean War, who became front page news three years ago when a deputy sheriff arrested him on a half-century old charge of horse stealing, was found a suicide today.

To the day of his death he held that a half brother was the horse thief and jail breaker in Birmingham, N. Y., in 1880. His costly bearing and interesting anecdotes won him the friends who came to his defense when the sheriff appeared with his warrant. At their request Governor Moore declined to sign extradition papers.

Diets. In Germany brought him 16 months confinement at Friburg, until the intervention of the American ambassador.

Why Fear

GRAY HAIR

WHY MUST MEN and women of a certain age and more be haunted by the fear of gray when science offers Kolor-Bak? If you don't want gray hair, don't have it—color with Kolor-Bak, a clean, colorless liquid which gradually colors hair to the right shade of blonde, auburn, brown or black! The one bottle is right for all shades! Nor does the hair lose lustre. Why experiment with anything else when one look of hair—when Kolor-Bak always gets the same results—tells you Kolor-Bak is sold on a money-back guarantee!

AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

CROSS-RUFFING

through his Queen, East considered continuation with diamonds to be the most desirable play. West, in response, therefore, continues with the Jack of diamonds, upon which East played the 8 rather than the 4 to show his holding of still more of the suit.

North leads the King of Clubs to force out the Ace if possible and establish the suit while at the same time, if the Ace is played, obtaining an entry in Dummy, the 10 of Clubs. West leads off and Declarer leads another Club, West winning. Because of the impending cross-ruff, West now leads the 7 of trumps (spades), killing the partner's Queen. Any other lead would have been equally harmful. Declarer leads another Diamond and ruffs it in Dummy. Dummy returns the Jack of Clubs, Declarer discarding a Heart. Dummy follows with the 2 of Clubs, East ruffs and Declarer overruffs.

Declarer ruffs his last remaining Diamond and then leads the Ace followed by a low Heart, losing the latter but taking the last two tricks with his trumps and making the game.

Tomorrow's article will give the Contract and Auction bidding and the play of another hand.

No Whitehead will answer questions concerning any bridge question. Write to him at 100 N. St., Boston, Mass. or to the Editor, Boston Evening American, 100 N. St., Boston, Mass. No return to be expected.

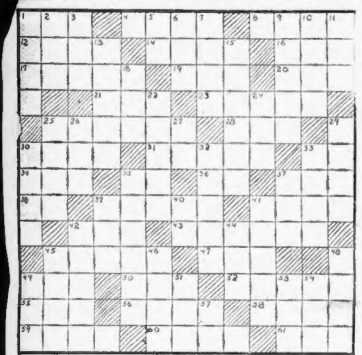

Auction Bidding—South bids one Spade when West doubles negatively. North jumps to three Spades to show unusual assurance for the Spade bid and shut out if possible East's response to the double. This bid secures the contract.

Contract Bidding—The Contract bidding would be the same as the Auction Bidding, except that South's jump should be in four Spades.

West's opening lead of the King of Diamonds captured Dummy's lone Queen, in spite of which East plays the encouraging 7, leaving West to continue with the suit. Having no untrumping honors in Hearts or Clubs that might be of assistance to partner in case of shift to either of these suits, and not wishing trumps to be led

By John Held, Jr.

"WELL, my dear, I was actually TOO IMPRESSED when this Palm BEACH place sort of STOOD out on the horizon effect because it was SOBRIETY perfectly DIVERGE-looking with all these strange PALMS kind of STAG'ING vaguely along the SHORE and these TERRIBLY cute villas and things sprawling CASUALLY across the LANDSCAPE and all, do you know what I mean?"

"Well, ANYWAYS, my dear, it was simply SCREAMING because Mr. WEALTHY,ington and I were PROWLING intimately about together on DECK when we SIGHTED it, and he asked me if I wanted to get a CLOSE-UP with the GLASSES, and, my dear, I was THRILLED to DEATH at that point because you could see EVERYTHING in the most interesting detail with these odd hOKU-tular things and what SLEW me was the NEBULON vision of these TERRIBLY attractive YOUTH standing VAGUELY round on the BEACH throwing their CHESTS out, sort of, because they were all the COLLEGIATE type, my dear, and I had visions of having a perfect WHIFF if I once got FEARING ROUND and whatnot with these YALE and HARVARD boys only MOTHER and DADDY were PRACTICALLY ready to ROLL over and BUTTER themselves with DINKY because they were simply TERRIFIED it was going to be FRIGITALLY EXPENSIVE if we stayed at one of these DICKY HOTELS and ANYWAYS everybody says MOST of the PALMS at Palm BEACH are OFFSTRETCHED—mean you cope with it? But ANYWAYS, my dear, the way things turned OUT was too perfectly SWISS and I'm consumed with a MAD desire to TELL you about it tomorrow, my dear—I mean I ACTUALLY AM!"

WASHINGTON—Mister Frisby swung into the hump stretch of his non-stop walking expedition today behind a spirited horse. He negotiated the ban of a carriage for his triumphant finish. Frisby promised to tap dance continuously on the dashboard. The Congressman seems remarkably well-preserved. He suffers occasional lapses of memory, sometimes saying he has walked two weeks, day and night. Other times he insists he started two months ago. The Congressional Record has agreed to compromise and split the difference—thus establishing five weeks as the official time.

Business Men's Art Clubs are being organized in Cleveland, Boston, Chicago and New York to stimulate painting by successful men. And it is a corking idea—they can put art on an efficient basis and perhaps work out quantity production.

Before painting, the members should have pig meetings. The speaker might arrange something like this: "How many of you men will pledge a landscape a day for six months? That's the spirit! Now let's all sing our 'Ved Band' song. The portrait painters will sing the first verse; the landscapers the second, and so on. By the way—how many can recite the Creed? That's ho!"

BAER FACTS

LOOKS like Mr. Hoover went to Florida to get away from that Cabinet he hasn't selected yet.

You can bet one thing on that new Cabinet.

There will be some big men who will resign from it.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It is one of the advertisements of grandmothers' mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, rheumatism, stiff neck, pleurisy, pneumonia, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frostbite, colds of the chest, it may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

Jars & Tubes MUSTEROLE WILL NOT BLISTER Better than a mustard plaster

Set in a good piece of meat outside, store it in a cool place. It will keep you. See the small yellow label today in the trial sample column of the Chamberlain's.

PAZO for PILES

You will be surprised at the speed with which PAZO brings relief for all forms of Piles. One soothing application and you begin to feel relief. Pain and distress leave. Inflammation and swelling are reduced. Healthy condition returns. Money-back guarantee and full directions in each package. Tube with pile pipe, 75¢. Tin box, 50¢.

Harbor Tug Fireman Drowned in Mystic

Arthur Dahl, fireman on the tug Robert S. Bradley, was drowned early today in the Mystic river off the pier of the Bradley Fertilizer Company in Medford st., Charlestown.

Sergt. O'Connell and Patrolman Henderson of the Charlestown police, lifted Dahl from the river and rushed him to Haymarket Relief Hospital, where attempts to resuscitate him failed. It is believed that Dahl fell from the deck of the tug, which was moored to the pier.

Fortunate for Mexico and All Free Nations

President Portes Gil's Bravery and Good Judgment Displayed at a Trying Time

In felicitating President Portes Gil and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, his brave and loyal minister of war, upon their fortunate escape when their train was wrecked recently by a bomb near Saco de Caballo, the government and people of Mexico may rest assured that President Coolidge and Ambassador Morrow voiced the profound gratification of the government and people of the United States.

This country was shocked last July by the assassination of Gen. Alvaro Obregon, who had a short time before been elected President of the Mexican republic. He was sitting at a banquet in his honor—a defenseless one-armed martyr—when a poor, misguided fanatic, pretending to show the general a drawing of himself, shot the President-elect dead with seven bullets fired at close range.

In the wake of that crime, first under the leadership of President Calles and lately under the leadership of President Portes Gil, the people of Mexico let the law take its course. They have shown a patience, a self-restraint, and a power of moderation that have deeply impressed not only their next-door neighbors on this side of the Rio Grande, but the people of the whole civilized world.

Gen. Obregon's murder was not taken out and shot without his day in court. On the contrary, he was given a trial. He was provided with counsel to defend him. He was subjected to an examination by experts to determine his sanity. He was allowed an appeal to the supreme tribunal of his country. And in his last hours he was permitted to receive the ministrations of his spiritual advisers. This obedience to the law means well for the future of Mexico.

It is fortunate alike for Mexico and for the whole family of free nations that the recent attempt upon the lives of President Portes Gil and Gen. Amaro has failed. And their government is protecting government everywhere in sparing no effort to examine and punish those responsible for that outrage. For the crime of assassination, instead of creating any problem that confronts Mexico today, can only aggravate her problems and make their solution more difficult.

Not only is President Portes Gil keenly aware of the fact, but he appears to be also deeply sensible of his obligation in these trying times, to Mexico and to orderly government there and elsewhere. He is not the man to be deterred from discharging that obligation even by an attempt upon his life.

And the example of personal bravery and calmness in the face of danger given by Mexico's President, and his firm resolve to go forward with his program of preparation for the coming election of his successor for the six-year term, ought to be highly reassuring to the Mexican people as well as to their neighbors and their friends throughout this hemisphere.

Under President Portes Gil, Mexico is making good progress toward the solution of her problems. Mexico can be certain that the United States looks forward with sympathy and hopefulness toward the continuance of that progress. For these two sovereign nations, living side by side, have too many aspirations in common for either people to be indifferent to the welfare of the other.

Not So Fierce Now

Time and Defeat Sober Men Down.

WILLIAM, FORMERLY KAISER, AND HIS SECOND WIFE, PRINCESS HERMINE.

Looking at this picture of a quiet, old gentleman, past seventy, spending his declining years in retreat in Holland with his second wife and stepchildren, you hardly recognize the fiery Kaiser of old days.

What a difference between this picture and one he had painted showing him on horseback, like Alexander the Great, with sandals on a saddle with no stirrups. They had no stirrups, you know, in the days of Alexander and Caesar. Stirrups were not invented then.

This is not the man that Theodore Roosevelt saw when he went to Germany to watch the annual maneuvers and met the Kaiser riding on his horse, surrounded by hundreds of thousands of his army, "ready, when I say the word, to ride wherever I will."

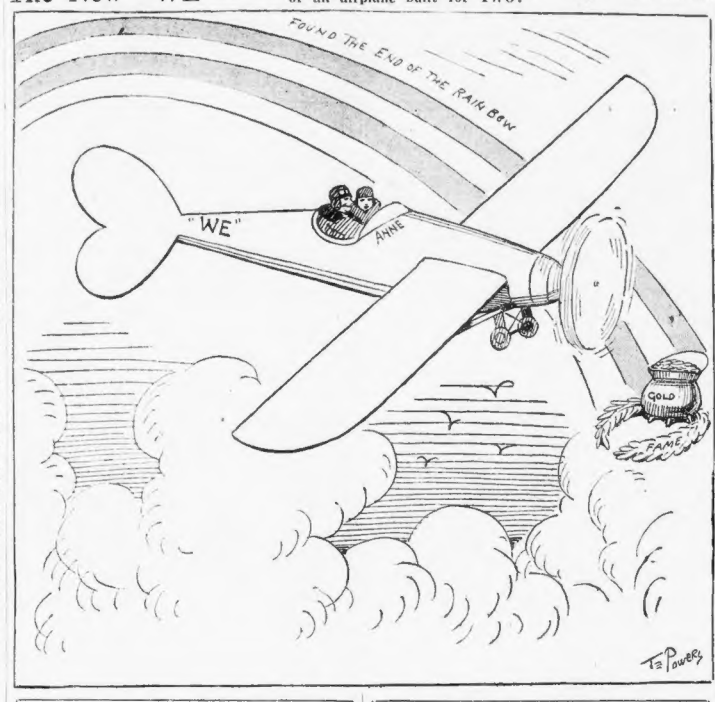

Time, defeat and putting on flesh change men's characters. The former Emperor now wears a mild gray beard with

THE phenomenal theory of the origin of the solar system was burned at the stake for teaching that the human race may be unique in the universe. This idea, in turn, and each having its own gravitational center of close associated suns.

In attempted contemplation of such vastness, even theological theories must stand aghast, paralyzed by the overwhelming immensity of the theme.

It is no wonder, then, that a return should be made to the original idea of a sole home for the favored creations of God's care, a unique world amidst the multitudinous orbs of the congested universe, a one and only Eden and one and only purgatory.

But the philosophical theory, by suggesting that the formation of a system of planets like ours is an occurrence by its nature extremely rare, if indeed it has ever happened more than once on our stellar system, has a strong theological appeal.

The gist of this theory is that long ages ago another sun happened to pass so near to our sun (which then was a lone body unattended by planets) that the tidal sun to burst forth in blazing effluence, the cooled, hardened and scattered substance of which afterward collected into the bodies called planets. The fate of that other sun, now confessedly, open space is so wide and wandering suns, notwithstanding their enormous actual number, are so sparsely distributed, that the chances for a second such encounter are exceedingly small.

Hence arises support for the belief which so few a thinker than Alfred Russel Wallace entertained that the earth and its wonderful inhabitants, man, are unique in the universe. God made the earth, man, says this peculiar faith, and God made man only on the earth.

And still the great telescopes, crowding yearly nearer, sweep with triumphant accuracy the vastness of the universe, revealing the boundless realms of immensity.

But the astronomer, with his systems of suns—universes, upon universe without end.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

DAN JACKSON can't seem to make a go of matrimony. He's only 25 and he has just gone through his second divorce.

No, Dan isn't a vicious or disappointed person. He doesn't drink, gamble or cheat. He has never beaten his wives nor wasted his money. He is, as a matter of fact, a perfect "home boy." But unfortunately it isn't his wife's home he prefers—it's his mother's.

"GOD MUZZ! MAMA—(that's the name of Dan's complaint). She's a nice mama, even Dan's ex-wives admit that. Pretty, popular, good-natured, absolutely devoted to Dan—and that's the only hitch. She is so devoted to Dan, she has made him so devoted to her that it is impossible for him to be happy with any other woman. No matter how nice the wife, or how pleasant the home, Dan is always unconsciously homesick for mama. And as long as he lives that peculiar, persistent, subconscious homesickness will keep Dan Jackson a baby and prevent him from taking his place as a man in the world of affairs.

That couldn't have happened if Dan had been born a Samoan baby. We Americans believe that close family ties are beautiful and desirable. But when it comes to something wrong with a person who isn't crazy about his folks! But the Samoans think quite the reverse. They think that it is narrowing and unhealthy for one individual to care too much for another, and they have made a plan which discourages too close bonds between individuals.

Margaret Mead tells about that plan in her remarkable book—"COMING OF AGE IN SAMOA." There's a book which every father and mother should read.

To most of us, Samoans seem strange, yet, in certain respects, they know far more than we do about training and adjusting children to life.

That will shock some of us. We feel that the Samoans are truly savage, who know nothing of the loveliest expressions of life. But as a matter of fact, the wisest and best people in history have lived in the most savage lands. They have always warned against pride for class and race superiority, and they have always said that such things dwarfed life.

Chances are that once when we were speaking to a multitude, someone said to him, "Behold thy mother and thy brethren standing with thee, desiring to speak with thee." But he answered and said unto him that told him, "Who is my mother? And who are my brethren?" And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples and said, "Behold my mother and my brethren."

That was a wise and noble answer. It was the answer of a great doctor of souls.

children to life. If Dan had been born a Samoan he would not have been crippled for life by a mother's craving. He would have had difficulty in knowing who his real mother was, for he would have been made a man by a whole community of relations.

"From the first months of his life," says Margaret Mead, "when the child is handed over to the care of his mother's hands to another, the lesson is learned of not caring for one person greatly, but of caring for many people in a community."

It is almost impossible for a Samoan child to acquire a "mother fixation." Everyone wipes the Samoan's baby's nose, everyone kisses his humps, And, because he does not depend on any one person for his life, he learns to depend on himself. Love is not eliminated from his life, but it is scattered. He grows up feeling that the whole community is his family, and he rarely feels an intense fondness for any one individual.

That will shock some of us. We feel that the Samoans are truly savage, who know nothing of the loveliest expressions of life. But as a matter of fact, the wisest and best people in history have lived in the most savage lands. They have always warned against pride for class and race superiority, and they have always said that such things dwarfed life.

Chances are that once when we were speaking to a multitude, someone said to him, "Behold thy mother and thy brethren standing with thee, desiring to speak with thee." But he answered and said unto him that told him, "Who is my mother? And who are my brethren?" And he stretched forth his hand toward his disciples and said, "Behold my mother and my brethren."

That was a wise and noble answer. It was the answer of a great doctor of souls.

New York Day by Day

O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(Daily of a modern Pappi.) Up and nightly, I pleased to be home again and reading my mail, there being several correspondents who seem to think they will never get their money. With my wife to call on Mrs. Kears Speed, who was on crutches from a broken ankle.

So home and found an autographed copy of Charles Hanson Towne's brave poems and a complimentary letter from John C. H. Plunkett, who has been a pleasant trip. All bowed graciously to the printer's devil and as mad as a printer's devil in life is to be seen.

In the evening with others to a crystal gaze's who divided our 50¢, and I have no faith in his abstract, but, like a nimby, paid a pound for his fakers. Then by a sandwich bazaar filled with people who sold also in life is to be seen.

A NEW YORKER who requires this to write after a heavy meal, excused himself from a dinner party the other evening, stating outside and into what he supposed was his limousine. It wasn't and he was certainly creating a commotion.

SOCIETY seems to be caroling a swan song to its butterfly. The thing is that of pre-war fashion is taking a place in the modern, the professions and the arts, instead of flourishing at the expense of the rest of the world.

To be a "trade" one received a swift. Architects employ socialists to pass on plans for smart houses. Most of the picture moguls employ them, and even studio artists, who have become store buyers, dress designers, and even more.

And—just a second to give your opinion on a stretch—on Palm Beach with a hefty expense account to mingle among nabobs and casually mention a big department store's wars.

IT IS automatic among ship news reporters the easiest piece of news to write is the one about the weather. Women as well as men have accustomed themselves to the weather, and they enjoy it. They enjoy it.

AND Coney Island still has its "Polar Bear," an organization of little who take their morning dip in the sea. The weather is all anti-anything. There are a lot of worthwhile things in this world if you could only see them.

THE trouble with my newspaper columnist, writes J. D. of up Broadway, is that you are all anti-anything. There are a lot of worthwhile things in this world if you could only see them.

NEW YORK will have a tipster, taxicab experiment this summer, starting with 22 cabs of the city. A nickel will get you a cab, and a nickel will get you a cab. A nickel will get you a cab, and a nickel will get you a cab.

drooping mustache, instead of a fierce mustache with points waved and turned upward. He wore a helmet, with the metal spike at the top, is replaced by a soft gray hat. Everything is gentleness and quiet.

And probably, on the whole, William of Hohenzollern is better off and happier. It was a hard job to play the part of "All Highest" weekdays and Sundays.

And, comparing his own fate with that of Napoleon after the latter had been beaten by the British at Waterloo, the Kaiser must congratulate himself.

He isn't locked up on any island of St. Helena to end his heart out. He lives in a comfortable castle belonging to one of his admirers. He has his wife with him, his children come to see him, with his friends.

And the generous German people allow him to collect gigantic revenues every year from his properties in Germany. It would not have been so in the old days.

When the war was over, the British told him they were going to hang the Kaiser as soon as they could get him. They could have got him at ANY time. Little Holland could not resist.

But they didn't really want to hang the count of their own king. In fact, they were well pleased to be rid of the war, and did not want to hang ANYBODY. So the Kaiser wears his new knickerbockers, his high boots and his pleasant old gentleman's smile.

LUCKY KAISER.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Sensible people find nothing useless. —La Fontaine.

Die when I may, I will not wait of those who know nothing. —Seneca.

Some folks rail against other people's faults, but they never see what some folks would be glad of. —Voltaire.

To live is to do battle. —Seneca.

The first rule of education in all lands is never to say anything of one's own. —Voltaire.

To know the pains of power, we must know the pains of power. —Voltaire.

It is never so difficult to speak much as to know the pains of power. —Voltaire.

La Rochefoucauld.
